WHAT?

After a few art based activities, I quickly discovered this group, who call themselves "The Art Club", was very interested in handcrafting objects for imaginative play.

Which lead me to curate extended explorations into handmade objects such as stuffies, ornaments and wooden peg people.

So WHAT?

The extensive time spent creating these objects allowed the group to learn and begin to hone their skills in:

3D Design, pattern making, threading a needle, sewing, proper use of a hot glue gun and miniature creations

The joy of learning these skills was expressed both verbally and physically (sooo many stuffies and miniature people)

Having created a variety of interesting figures both imaginary and real, I would pose a question to the Art Club...

now WHAT?

Perhaps creating a stop motion short featuring their figures?
